

Follow The Leader

Do you follow? Should you follow? Do you sit back and watch others follow?

I answer YES to all three. I am guilty of all.

I have found myself engaged in topic that someone has started thinking it is right and then finding myself later thinking it all took a wrong turn somewhere.

I have also started beading, following along a set of instructions and then finding it has all gone wrong!

You see, our "lives" and our "beading lives" are running parallel to each other I believe.

You act as a person as you do in your beading. Or you bead as you act!

It can be good it can be bad.

As a Beading Person, I feel there is a time to Lead, a time to Follow, a time to Stand Up and a time to Sit Down!

Why can't people be as kind to each other as they are in their beadings? You make a mistake you start over or correct it or make it work for the good.

I have had my own "revelations" and "realizations". I have come to realize that I am Not Always Right! Even in my Own World! Haha

I have seen my Own shortcuts from looking at others actions. I have seen my Own mishaps, mis-speaks so to say, in reading what others have written and the hurt in their words from "sharp mouthed", "short tempered" people.

This life is too short to be mean, ugly and cruel for no other reason than to make yourself look more important.

Inner peace is a thing few people have acquired. Many have flown past it, over it, ducked under it or just ran right through it. Until you can be content with your own self you can not be content with what anyone else has to say, you can not be content to deal with your works as a beader.

And when you Do Find it, Keep it but remember to be Very Generous With It and share your knowledge and contentment with others so they might strive to achieve what you have. Therefore, being a happier group of people as a whole.

Thank you

Rafannette Dooley